P R E F A C E.

THE TRUSTEES of PSALMS AND HYMNS having acquired "THE TREASURY"—the Tune-book for their School Edition—now issue this Congregational Edition as the companion to the parent book. In the "Alphabetical Index of Hymns" will be found a suitable tune, or tunes, for every hymn in the collection.

The aim throughout has been to utilise and concentrate the excellencies of all leading collections, and to "hold fast that which is good," rather than to introduce new and untested music. Established names of tunes have not been altered, the best available arrangements have been selected, improvements on those of the School Edition have been adopted wherever experience has shewn these to be practicable, and in a few instances, where tunes include recurring phrases, varied harmonies have been introduced.

The selection, while including an ample supply of good, simple, well-known tunes—the heritage of the Church universal—has also an exceptionally large number of the highest-class compositions; thus at once meeting the wants of our smaller churches and the requirements of our most advanced choirs and cultured congregations. The abounding fulness of some sections, together with the few supplemental tunes, will be highly appreciated in our homes, and will be of great value for Anniversaries, Services of Song, etc. It is hoped that the tunes selected will be found "capable of embodying the purest thoughts and noblest aspirations of both religion and art"; no pains or expense having been spared to compile a standard book adequately meeting the varied requirements of our congregations and homes. A very few have been included more from their general popularity and the hold they have obtained, than from their intrinsic musical value.

A choice selection of forty double chants is included—an ample provision for congregations using these simply for hymns. For anthems, or chants set to Psalms or other portions of Scripture, for which the full text properly pointed is required, recourse must be had to other books; it being impracticable to combine an adequate number of such in this volume.

Every attention has been paid in the setting, to fix the tune that most fully expresses the sentiment of the hymn; but whenever an alternative tune seems equally suitable, nothing is easier than to adopt it, the tunes allotted being, in many cases, simply suggestions of what is suitable, and not intended to supersede the use of others that may have been endeared by association, or that may appear on any account preferable. When a hymn is definitely associated with a tune, it is strongly recommended, as a rule, not to put asunder that which has thus been joined together, it being preferable that each hymn should have its distinctive tune.

Comparatively few of the tunes appear now for the first time; but it is believed that very many, taken from numerous and often little-known sources, will be new to most of our congregations. The largeness of the mass of new and suitable music, thus made available, suggests a caution as to the method and measure of its introduction. Probably no one congregation will be able at first effectively to employ even one-half of the contents; but eventually there will probably be at least as large a number of the tunes as of the hymns in familiar use. Each choirmaster will be guided by circumstances as to the proportion of “things new and old” he brings forth, and it does not necessarily follow that, even assuming a hymn set to the best possible tune, the employment of this tune at all times when the hymn is sung will be the best possible course.

The system adopted;—in the omission of time-signatures, the arrangement of bars and double bars, the length of the commencing and terminal notes, and the repetition of the clef-signatures,—has been the result of careful consideration: it is believed that greatly increased steadiness and confidence will be secured by taking all tunes in strict time, exactly as written. Although the tunes are generally printed in the modern notation, it is not intended that they should be sung more rapidly than if printed in minims and semibreves. The subject of each hymn will indicate to the reverent mind the proper speed of its tune, and a just medium will be preserved between a careless drawl and an unseemly haste, both equally prejudicial to the devout spirit that should characterise our worship.

In the Indexes, alphabetical progression has been adhered to: occasionally, in the body of the work, this has been deviated from, for the purpose of grouping on one opening, tunes of the same character, as "bold," or "bright," "Scotch," "plaintive and minor," "communion," etc. This new departure will be found of convenience; the majority—and in many cases all—of the eighteen hymns quoted, being equally suitable for any of the six tunes on the same opening.

The most hearty thanks of the Trustees are presented to the numerous composers and proprietors of tunes, for the Christian courtesy and hearty willingness with which they have placed accumulated treasures at their disposal, a specially pleasing trait being the fraternal sympathy manifested by numerous friends in the Church of England, and the cordial terms by which their consent has been given. Reference to the following table of acknowledgments will show the extent of indebtedness.

The proprietors of "Hymns Ancient and Modern" have found it necessary to lay down rules restricting their permissions, and the exception made in granting the use of several of their most valued copyrights to the Trustees, is specially appreciated.

As in the case of the School Edition, the selection, the compilation and setting, together with all details and arrangements, have been made and carried out by their colleague Mr. J. B. Mead, to whom his co-trustees present their warmest acknowledgments for his labour of love, as well as for the skill, research, taste, and ready resource with which he has accomplished a task requiring unstinted sacrifice of leisure, and often involving difficult negotiations.

The work has been prepared for and passed through the press under the care of Dr. Arthur S. Holloway, who has again co-operated as professional adviser, and whose long experience and high ability give the fullest assurance of technical correctness throughout.

Special acknowledgments are also due to Mr. W. C. Filby for invaluable counsel and assistance voluntarily rendered throughout the whole of the work, and for the free use of many of his arrangements of non-copyright tunes.

Every effort has been made to obtain permission from their composers or proprietors for the use of the copyright tunes in this Collection, and to acknowledge the same. The Trustees have endeavoured to trace the source of every tune selected, but in a very few instances their attempts to communicate with writers have failed, or they have been unable to obtain definite information: should they thus have inadvertently infringed any copyright, they offer every apology, and will gladly make any necessary rectification in future Editions.

The Trustees do not own any music copyrights. Application for permission to use any of the copyright tunes in this collection must be made to the proprietors as given in the following Table of acknowledgments.

ALFRED SHAW.

1189. Who are these arrayed in white, Brighter than the noon-day sun? Fore-most of the sons of light,

Near-est the e-ter-nal throne? These are they that bore the Cross, No-bly for their Mas-ter stood; Suf-frers in His right-eous cause, Fol-l'wers of the dy-ing God.

389. Je-sus! lov-er of my soul, Let me to Thy bo-som fly, While the rag-ing wa-ters roll, While the tem-pest still is high: Hide me, O my Sa-viour, hide, Till the storm of life is past; Safe in - to the ha-ven guide: O re-ceive my soul at last!

415 HONIDON.

7s., 8 lines.

REV. T. R. MATTHEWS, M.A.

1094. Depth of mer-cy, can there be Mer-cy still re-served for me? Can my God His wrath for-bear? Me, the chief of sinners, spare? I have long withstood His grace, Long provoked Him to His face; Would not hearken to His calls: Grieved Him by a thousand falls.

416 INVOCATION.

7s., 8 lines.

From BEETHOVEN.

885. Lord, have mercy when we pray Strength to seek a bet-ter way; When our waking thoughts be-gin

First to loathe our cherished sin; When our wea-ry spi-rits fail, And our ach-ing brows are pale; When our tears be-dew Thy word, Then, O then, have mer-cy, Lord.

417 IONA.

From COSTA
Arranged by W. C. FILBY.

1. f Blessing and hon-our and glo-ry and power, Wis-dom and rich-es and strength, ev-er-more,

Give ye to Him who our bat-tle hath won, Whose are the king-dom, the crown, and the throne.

2. f Into the heaven of the heavens hath He gone;
Sitteth He now in the joy of the throne;
Weareth He now of the kingdom the crown;
Singeth He now the new song with His own.
3. ff Soundeth the heaven of the heavens with His name,
Ringeth the earth with His glory and fame,
Ocean and mountain, stream, forest, and flower,
Echo His praises and tell of His power.
4. f Ever ascendeth the song and the joy,
Ever descendeth the love from on high,
Blessing and honour and glory and praise—
This is the theme of the hymns that we raise.
5. f Give we the glory and praise to the Lamb,
Take we the robe and the harps and the palm,
Sing we the song of the Lamb that was slain,
p Dying in weakness, (cr.) but rising to reign.

Him with a - dor - - a - - tion Serve, the Lord most ho - - ly,

Who hath mer - cy on the low - ly. cr. Let us raise Hymns of praise,

For His great sal - va - tion :- God is in His tem - - - ple!

2. f Christ comes to His temple :
 We, His word receiving,
 Are made happy in believing.
 Lo ! from sin delivered,
 He hath turned our sadness,
 Our deep gloom to light and gladness !
cr. Let us raise
 Hymns of praise,
 For our bonds are severed :-
 Christ comes to His temple !

3. f Come, and claim Thy temple,
 Gracious, Holy Spirit !
 In our hearts Thy home inherit :-
 Make in us Thy dwelling ;
 Thy high work fulfilling,
 Into ours Thy will instilling ;
f Till we raise
 Hymns of praise,
 Beyond mortal telling,
 In the eternal temple !

1. f Hark! 'tis the watchman's cry, "Wake, brethren, wake!" Je - sus our Lord is nigh:

Wake, brethren, wake! mf Sleep is for sons of night; cr. Ye are chil-dren of the light; Yours is the glo - ry bright; f Wake, brethren, wake!

2. mf Call to each waking band,
 "Watch, brethren, watch!"
 Clear is our Lord's command,
 Watch, brethren, watch!
 Be ye as men that wait
 Always at the Master's gate,
 Even though He tarry late:
 Watch, brethren, watch!

3. mf Hail we the Master's call,
 "Work, brethren, work!"
 There's room enough for all;
 Work, brethren, work!
 This vineyard of the Lord
 Constant labour will afford;
cr. Yours is a sure reward:
f Work brethren, work!

4. mf Hear we the Saviour's voice,
p "Pray, brethren, pray!"
mf Would ye His heart rejoice?
p Pray, brethren, pray!
 Sin calls for constant fear;
cr. Weakness needs the strong One near;
dim. Long as ye struggle here,
pp Pray, brethren, pray!

5. f Sound now the final chord,
 "Praise, brethren, praise!"
 Thrice holy is our Lord,
 Praise, brethren, praise!
 What more bends the tongues,
 Soon to join the angels' songs,
 While heaven the note prolongs?
f Praise, brethren, praise!

From SCHUBERT.

1. mp In whom shall I find com - fort, 'Mid trou - ble and an - noy - ance?

To whom con - fide my rap - ture When throbs my heart with joy - - - - - ance?

cr. To Thee I turn, O Fa - ther! A - like in joy and sad - ness:

Thou Heal - er of all sor - row, And Giv - er of all glad - ness.

2. p But may I dare approach Thee,
Polluted and unholy?
Yet who on earth before Thee,
Is free from sin and folly?
cr. Thy child, to Thee I hasten,
Whose fond embrace hath won me,
And cast my every burden
In confidence upon Thee.

3. mf Thy loving voice hath sounded,
"My grace your bonds hath severed:
O come to Me, ye weary,
And ye shall be delivered!"
f 'Tis well! O jubilate!
Sweet peace and pardon knowing,
In Thy kind arms I shelter,
My soul with love o'erflowing.
